1. Course description: Philosophy has gotten a bad rap, thanks in part to the throwing-together of sincere, but flaky texts in self-help and mysticism with outright frauds in the same fields at the philosophy rack in the typical mall bookstore. Philosophy can be an important tool for self-help, and some philosophers are mystics, but with philosophy as with other fields of inquiry one must avoid confusing the popular stereotype with reality.

No one is forced to become a mystic. But in a very real sense, I think, we are all forced to do philosophy, whether we want to or not, by questions we all face just by virtue of being alive. Even many of the most vertiginous flights of philosophical abstraction are simply the a natural consequence of treating these questions with the seriousness they deserve. Since we all have no choice but to be philosophers, it pays to embrace the inevitable, and to learn what tools are available for dealing with philosophical problems. This course might thus have been titled, "The inevitability of philosophy." Its actual title, "The Examined Life," comes from a Socratic dictum that itself merits closer scrutiny.

2. Readings: The following items are (or will soon be) available for sale at the University Bookstore:

Steven M. Cahn, ed., Classics of Western Philosophy
Voltaire, Candide.
Rudy Rucker, Software.
Paul Churchland, Matter and Consciousness.
Jean-Jaques Rousseau, The Social Contract
Plato, Republic.
Albert Camus, The Myth of Sisyphus.

I have made every effort to find cheap editions providing good value for money. Please buy all of them, if possible. In addition, you may use the on-line HyperText History of Philosophy now being developed at:

<http://gsarva.phil.lehigh.edu/hhp>

3. Evaluation: There will be three papers and a take-home final exam. The first two papers (three to five pages in length) are each worth 25 points. The third paper (four to six pages in length) is worth 30 points. The take-home final is worth 15 points. Contributions to the class in the form of questions or comments made either in class or on-line are worth up to an additional
