Gray Matters An Introduction To The Philosophy Of The Mind:

Gray Matters Sanford Goldberg, Andrew Pessin, 2015-06-03 Gray Matters is a thorough examination of the main topics in recent philosophy of mind. It aims at surveying a broad range of issues, not all of which can be subsumed under one position or one philosopher's theory. In this way, the authors avoid neglecting interesting issues out of allegiance to a given theory of mind.

Gray Matters Sanford Goldberg, Andrew Pessin, 1997 Gray Matters is a thorough examination of the main topics in recent philosophy of mind. It aims at surveying a broad range of issues, not all of which can be subsumed under one position or one philosopher's theory. In this way, the authors avoid neglecting interesting issues out of allegiance to a given theory of mind.

Book Jacket Consciousness Andrea Eugenio Cavanna, Andrea Nani, 2014-09-30 This book reviews some of the most important scientific and philosophical theories concerning the nature of mind and consciousness. Current theories on the mind-body problem and the neural correlates of consciousness are presented through a series of biographical sketches of the most influential thinkers across the fields of philosophy of mind, psychology, and neuroscience. The book is divided into two parts: the first is dedicated to philosophers of mind, and the second to neuroscientists and experimental psychologists. Each part comprises twenty short chapters, with each chapter being dedicated to one author. A brief introduction is given on his or her life and most important works and influences. The most influential theories developed by each author are then carefully explained and examined with the aim of scrutinizing the strengths and weaknesses of the different approaches to the nature of consciousness.

Origins of Mind Liz Swan, 2012-12-22 The big question of how and why mindedness evolved necessitates collaborative multidisciplinary investigation. Biosemiotics provides a new conceptual space that attracts a multitude of thinkers in the biological and cognitive sciences and the humanities who recognize continuity in the biosphere from the simplest to the most complex organisms and who are united in the project of trying to account for even language and human consciousness in this comprehensive picture of life. The young interdisciplinary of biosemiotics has so far by and large focused on codes, signs, and sign processes in the microworld, a fact that reflects the field's strong representation in microbiology and embryology. What philosophers of mind and cognitive scientists can contribute to the growing interdisciplinary are insights into how the biosemiotic weltanschauung applies to complex organisms like humans, where such signs and sign processes constitute human society and culture.

The Ethics of Belief Jonathan Matheson, Rico Vitz, 2014-08-14 How do people form beliefs, and how should they do so? This book presents seventeen new essays on these questions, drawing together perspectives from philosophy and psychology. The first section explores the ethics of belief from an individualistic framework. It begins by examining the question of doxastic voluntarism, i.e., the extent to which people have control over their beliefs. It then shifts to focusing on the kinds of character that epistemic agents should cultivate, what their epistemic ends ought to be, and the way in which these issues are related to other traditional questions in epistemology. The section concludes by examining questions of epistemic value: of whether knowledge is in some sense primary, and of whether the ethics of belief falls within the domain of epistemology or ethics The second section extends this traditional debate to issues concerning the social dimensions of belief formation It begins with essays by social psychologists discussing the past three decades of research in lay epistemics It continues by examining Humean Kantian and feminist insights into the social aspects of belief formation as well as questions concerning the ethics of assertion The section concludes with a series of essays examining a topic that is currently of great interest to epistemologists namely the significance of peer disagreement

Consciousness David Rose,2006-02-02 Consciousness is a state of being aware of our self of our surroundings of our place in those surroundings What neural processes drive our awareness and how do these processes relate to what we think of as our mind David Rose seeks to respond to these questions taking a critical approach Problems in Mind Jack S.
