YOUR CFO GUY™

What is Auditing?

Auditing is the independent evaluation of financial records and processes to ensure accuracy & compliance

What do Auditors do?

Auditors assess the internal controls and risk management systems being used in an organization to identify any potential weaknesses

Audit Standards

SEC Compliant

- Conducted by Securities and Exchange Commission
- Less stringent than PCAOB

PCAOB

- Established by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board
- Required for public companies

Internal Controls & Risk Assessment

Internal controls and Risk Assessment are important to identify, analyze, and mitigate certain risks such as fraud, errors, and issues with compliance. Auditors will analyze both the existence of these controls, as well as the effectiveness of these controls

Segregation of Duties

Here, an auditor would assess whether there is a clear separation of responsibilities to prevent fraud or errors, ensuring that there are proper checks and balances, and that no one individual have control over multiple key financial processes.

ex wire payments need dual approval

Access Controls

Auditors evaluate access controls to ensure that the sensitive information is being accessed only by authorized individuals

ex passwords, databases, or files

Going Concern

When an auditor assesses the risk of a company's ability to continue its operations for the foreseeable future, typically at least the next 12 months ex will this company be around next year?

Monitoring and Reviewing Procedures

Here, an auditor's job is to keep an eye on the financial activities in an organization to ensure things are running smoothly

Management Oversight

This involves management regularly reviewing financial transactions to ensure accuracy and identify potential issues

Internal Audits

These are independent assessments conducted by internal auditors to ensure everything is running efficiently and in line with regulations

Reconciliations

Here is where an auditor will evaluate whether the information that shows on the financial statements matches to different sets of financial records

How Auditors do their job

Statistical sampling

This involves using mathematical and statistical procedures to draw conclusions about the entire population.

Judgmental sampling

This technique is more of an art than a science, and relies on the auditor's professional judgment and expertise

Materiality

Auditors also determine materiality thresholds for assessing the significance of errors or omissions in the financial statements

Audit Opinions

Unqualified Opinion

Indicates that the financial statements are presented fairly, in all material respects, and comply with the applicable accounting standards.

Adverse Opinion

When the auditors conclude that the financial statements are not presented fairly, and don't comply with the accounting standards this is NOT a good opinion to receive

Qualified Opinion

Issued when the auditor determines that the overall financial statements are fairly presented, but there is a specific area of concern.

Disclaimer of Opinion

Given the auditor was unable to conclude their opinion on the accuracy of the financial statements, can be due to missing evidence, or too many uncertainties
