Energy Question:

The Energy Question Volume One: The World Edward W. Erickson, Leonard Waverman, 1974-12-15 The so called energy crisis that burst upon the world in 1973 was not easily understood by many people It was neither the beginning of the end nor the first encounter by modern man with the natural result of his prodigality These papers collected in two volumes from energy economists in the United States Canada and Britain all indicate that the crisis was and is a short run problem caused by government action or inaction The problem may be complex but it was mishandled particularly by the United States in terms of government policy The rise in the price of and the embargo on oil came into being because of a successful producers cartel outside North America oil buyers nations and companies did not respond in kind but scurried around the world in separate planes in order to ensure supplies for themselves at any price That price became many times the cost of production price despite the fact that cool analysis reveals an increase in both production and reserves in most areas of the world The shortage of refined oil products for consumers are attributable partly to the embargo but also to a shortage of refineries and bottlenecks in transportation some of which have been induced by government uncertainties over recent years Proper government policies are now required The thirty six papers in the two books treat a multitude of topics related to the question of energy as seen from the stance of the economist All sources of energy are considered as are the markets in major areas of the world past policies are analysed and future policies recommended It is hoped that the volumes giving the background to the energy problems of the immediate future and a menu of prescriptions for their solution will interest businessmen market analysts and policy makers as well as economists teaching or learning in many parts of the world energy hub within the South East Asian region Under these circumstances this research conducts a comprehensive literature review regarding the past development as well as the current situation of renewable energy utilization in Thailand which concludes in the identification of the importance of renewable energy in the given context and closes with both a distinctive need assessment and a conceptual framework for Thailand's future renewable energy strategy Subsequently the research introduces a unique primary research endeavor in the form of an explorative expert interview survey which succeeds in a substantial collection of qualitative and in depth data These valuable data is first objectively analyzed and second subjectively interpreted and summarized to become the major source for the derivation of a multitude of potential strategic recommendations for an enhanced future renewable energy utilization development in Thailand Finally the entirety of these recommended strategic approaches based on both the secondary and primary research are assembled to develop the Enhanced Renewable Energy Utilization EREU model for electricity generation in Thailand as the fundamental finding of this thesis and research project respectively
