

Factors which influence development

Relationships are central to children's wellbeing and their learning, as sensitive adults engage in serve-and-return interactions and support and extend children's curiosity, learning, autonomy and self-regulation.

Children can thrive when they feel safe, valued and loved. Emotional self-regulation is a critical support for development and learning.

Good health and wellbeing enable children to participate in and enjoy learning experiences, and gain the most benefit.

Although development tends to follow predictable patterns overall, each child's journey will be an individual, winding pathway, unique to that child.

Children develop and learn through physical and mental engagement and challenges. They have agency in their involvement with other people, objects, ideas and events, and build working theories about the world around them.

Children's early experiences influence biological and neurological development and ability to learn.

A sense of belonging and place in the community provides a base for a child's developing identity and enhances learning.
