Ethnicity and Education in Nation-building Aftab A. Kazi,1994 Ethnicity and education Gal Levy,2002 Ethnicity and Education in Nation-building in Pakistan Aftab A. Kazi,1994 Negotiating Ethnic Diversity and National Identity in History Education Helen Mu Hung Ting,Luigi Cajani,2023-05-26 This edited book explores the problems and challenges of negotiating the representation of ethnic minorities within history education It investigates how states balance the non acknowledgement of the reality of cultural or religious diversity and the promotion of a point of convergence in history education to foster national identity Shifting our attention away from the intractable challenges posed by post conflict countries for reconciliation the contributors draw attention to the need to explore ways to prevent or pre empt conflicts and exclusion through history education which could contribute to developing a more sustainable culture of peace Drawing on a wide range of contexts and sources this book asks how history education could contribute to forming critical historically informed and committed young citizens The book will be of interest to students and academics working on themes such as nationalism citizenship ethnicity history education multicultural education peace studies and area studies as well as practitioners in the fields of history social studies civic or citizenship Ethnicity & Nation Building International Studies Association,1974-03 Race, Education, and Citizenship Sin Yee Koh,2017-01-04 Transnational skilled migrants are often thought of as privileged migrants with flexible citizenship This book challenges this assumption by examining the diverse migration trajectories experiences and dilemmas faced by tertiary educated mobile Malaysian migrants through a postcolonial lens It argues that mobile Malaysians culture of migration can be understood as an outcome and consequence of British colonial legacies of race education and citizenship inherited and exacerbated by the post colonial Malaysian state Drawing from archival research and interviews with respondents in Singapore United Kingdom and Malaysia this book examines how mobile Malaysians make sense of their migration lives and contextualizes their stories to the broader socio political structures in colonial Malaya and post colonial Malaysia Showing how legacies of colonialism initiate facilitate and propagate migration in a multi ethnic post colonial migrant sending country beyond the end of colonial rule this text is a key read for scholars of migration citizenship ethnicity nationalism and postcolonialism Education and Nation-building in Africa Laing Gray Cowan,David G. Scanlon,1965 Christian Education and Nation Building Johnny Yao Akoto,Interdenominational Theological Center,1999 Language Policy of Education and National Identity in Ethiopia Yirgalem Alemu,2019-10-17 Academic Paper from the year 2019 in the subject Speech Science Linguistics language English abstract This work has attempted to give an overview of how the language policy of the different regimes in Ethiopia has contributed to the sense of national identity Although language is not the only factor that consolidates or weakens national identity it plays a significant role It is with this mine that the book is written Different language related policies and documents of the imperial military and EPRDF regimes were closely investigated Sections and statements in the policy pertaining to language use were considered as units of analysis Furthermore empirical and theoretical literature written in areas of language policy and national identity were consulted The author also included his personal experiences as a university instructor and informal meetings held with people in different walks of life The evidence obtained from the sources mentioned above reflects that the language policy used in Ethiopia is highly polarized ranging from one language to all to no language to all That is the regimes before EPRDF dictate one language to be used as a tool of communication to all Ethiopians On the other hand the EPRDF regime emphasized local language and culture without practically giving any room for national communication Both approaches contribute little to national identity formation This book recommends that Ethiopians need to learn from other multilingual countries about language planning Ethnocentric thinking that assumes one's own language as superior to the other's language should be avoided Politicians also need to abstain from politicizing language identity and using it as a means of mobilizing support This book recommends that bilingual multilingual education contributes a lot to Ethiopian national identity formation

Nation-building, Ethnicity and Language Politics in Transition Countries Farimah Daftary, François Grin, 2003 Takes stock of the experience of the countries concerned in dealing with linguistic diversity The emphasis is on the interplay between the politics of language and the development of language legislation codifying the respective status of different languages Nine case studies ranging from the high visibility cases of the Baltic States to much less known language policy developments in Armenia or Tatarstan provide in depth analyses illustrating the remarkable range of language politics in times of change The case of a stateless people the Roma and the politicization of the debate on the standardization of Romanes are also discussed Apoint venture with the European Centre for Minority Issues Flensburg Germany

ABSTRACT The 2021 military coup ended a decade of reforms and shattered Myanmar's political landscape This event has triggered conflict in nearly all regions of the country as well as numerous deaths arbitrary detentions massive population displacements and migrations and a dramatic drop in people's livelihood The realm of education has been at the heart of great political and cultural battles throughout the country's history playing decisive roles to legitimize and to oppose colonial and independent governments including repressive military regimes With a myriad of actors demonstrating unshakable determination and resilience in their opposition to the coup the education sector has certainly held its place as a key component of Myanmar's politics this time around As part of the Civil Disobedience Movement civil servants and students have massively boycotted the national education system Numerous historical and newly created non state education systems also play increasingly important roles in providing an alternative to education under the control of the military These education providers with broad and partly overlapping categories such as pro revolution NUG ethnic monastic private or Chinese operate both within and beyond State controlled territories Many of them face daunting challenges including extremely limited resources and the use of deadly violence by the military Mobilizing a wide historical and geographical perspective and using a simple transversal lens of quantity quality and identity this book aims to document and make sense of these dramatic and fast evolving developments towards a better understanding of the opportunities and challenges concerning education under and beyond the current military regime

The Two Faces of Education in Ethnic Conflict Kenneth D. Bush,Diana Saltarelli,2000 This publication challenges a widely held assumption that education is inevitably a force for good While stressing the many stabilizing aspects of good quality education the book shows how education can be manipulated to drive a wedge between people rather than drawing them closer together After analyzing the increasing importance of ethnicity in contemporary conflicts this Innocenti Insight outlines the negative and positive faces of education in situations of tension or violence including the denial of education as a weapon of war negative and the cultivation of inclusive citizenship positive It emphasizes the need for peacebuilding education that goes further than the add good education and stir approach aiming to transform the very foundation of intolerance
