

Activity: An Introduction

Students demonstrate an understanding of compound probability through simple events based on the outcomes of two dice. This is done by putting the principle of independence to use in determining the probability that two events will occur. The probability of two events occurring together is the product of the probabilities of each event occurring. The generalization of this rule to more than two events is also given. The probability that two events will occur together is the product of the probabilities of each event occurring.
