Abstract. Entrepreneurship education (EE) is often regarded as one of the most important elements of the policy of stimulating small business and self-employment, creating start-ups and innovative business projects. The implementation of EE in the system of professional training at a new stage in the development of society could significantly increase the potential of using universities in the process of economic growth. The article sheds light on the nature and features of EE, analyzes the prospects and difficulties of its integration with other areas of training. The study demonstrates great prospects for the implementation of EE into the program of higher education training. EE has to be concentrated around several important characteristics of entrepreneurship and entrepreneurs themselves. The implementation of EE at the curriculum and extra-curriculum activities at the institutions of higher education of Ukraine, the combination of theoretical, problem- and project-oriented learning with the immersion into practical activities concerned with business planning, creating and running, training of students in groups together with nascent and experienced entrepreneurs would be extremely useful and productive in terms of motivating more and more young people to take an entrepreneurial path and achieve prosperity and self-actualization. The practical realization of EE will contribute to the formation of more resilient and competitive local communities as well as a more inclusive, just, equal, and happy society.

1 Introduction

Private enterprise is not only the most important economic phenomenon of a market society, but also a key socio-cultural phenomenon that has made a significant contribution to the processes of modernization, the establishment of institutions, structures, value-motivational and behavioral models of a modern society. Although entrepreneurship has deeply embedded in the life of modern Ukrainian society, it has not to a full extent become the driving force behind the development of a civilized market economy and a highly developed social sphere. Private enterprise is influenced by many negative factors related to corruption, raiding, violent actions, non-compliance with contractual obligations, connections with the criminal world and corrupt officials, tax evasion, neglect of moral standards and demonstrative consumption of "new Ukrainians" - all these occur against the background of social polarization and low quality of life of wide strata of society. Entrepreneurs themselves often demonstrate a low level of professionalism and profound amomic demoralization. In this sense, business in Ukraine is more inherent in the attributes of adventurous capitalism rather than a modern, rational variation of market relations. What can contribute to overcoming the above-mentioned maladies of Ukrainian entrepreneurship is entrepreneurship education (EE), in particular at the level of higher professional education.

In recent years, many countries in the post-Soviet space have been discussing the need to introduce new organizational and managerial forms of interaction between the industrial and scientific-educational sectors, in particular scientific and industrial research centers based in leading universities. Such centers, which combine the financial, material, and technical resources with qualified personnel of universities, could become the driving forces of the innovative model of the country's industrial development. So, on the basis of the National Technical University of Ukraine "Igor Sikorsky Kyiv Polytechnic Institute", the first in Ukraine innovative ecosystem Sikorsky Challenge, which is designed to attract creative youth to innovative entrepreneurship and which includes a start-up school, business incubator, venture fund and other elements of innovative infrastructure, was created and already has achieved resounding success. There innovative technological ideas are successfully nurtured, startup companies are launched and developed. Thus, Ukraine has certain successes - though local ones - in creating innovative infrastructure based on research universities. In recent years one can observe the growth of interest in entrepreneurship education. It is often considered as one of the most significant elements of the policy of
