Abstract: The present research seeks to investigate citizens' awareness of the commitment to the beauty of the urban space. The theoretical framework has been explained using the theories by Ritzer, Parsons, Turner and Habermas and the research was done with an applied goal and via two survey and documentary methods. After dividing the city into four zones, the number of 432 people was selected as the population samples using random and classified sampling. This study examined eight hypotheses and the results showed that awareness of the commitment to the beauty of the urban space was in a medium rate, and the people in an age range of 30-59 years; the married; holders of diploma and lower, villagers and the unemployed accounted for high percentages of sample population; this is while the majority of the sample population had a modest social status. Also according to Pearson Correlation Test, Analysis of Variance of Regression Test and Regression Equation Coefficients, there was a positive relationship between awareness of commitment to city beauty and mass media, public participation, socio-economic base, birth place, recognition of urban beauty components and of commitment components, but there was no relationship between gender, education and age, with awareness of the commitment to urban beauty. The significance of confirmed hypotheses indicates a lack of awareness among citizens about the urban beauty commitment, and sometimes low citizens' commitment to the beauty of city requires the need for the cooperation of governmental and non-governmental organizations to raise awareness among citizens.

INTRODUCTION

City is a living term with its constituting components constantly changing. Cities are developed out of the time, place, and reflection of past history and of their economic, social, political, and geographic changes, and, by influencing social life and becoming centers of control of the initiative, they gradually engage in more diverse activities. If we consider the current century the "Beauty century of cities" [1] there is no way than to regard for citizens' commitment to the beauty of the city. The citizens' commitment to the city not only provides favorable conditions for the interaction of citizens, but also the people in the community, with full awareness of the duties and knowledge of the city life, and the methods of active participation in all areas and urban spaces, bring about optimal changes in the urban structure. Citizens' awareness of the commitment to the beauty of the city is not only a major obstacle to the destruction of cities, urban institutions and historical memorials of the city, but also, their awareness of the cycles of urban life, deep knowledge of the city, emotional attachment, and the safeguarding of urban charter along with social cohesion and consensus result in the taking of basic steps in the development and advancement of the society.

Today's cities are faced with dis-organization with respect to the citizens' attachment and commitment to the beauty of the city and this has been due to the turbulence caused by physiological, social, cultural, and political stimuli in the environment and space, the dominance of monetary economics on the cities, the injection of features such as accounting, competition, alienation, and citizens becoming unemotional. A overview of resources is an indicator of disfigured and non-beautiful spaces of the developing world's cities, because the overwhelming growth of the population, the pollution of the environment, the "Lack of harmony of development with industrialization, the emergence of several-million un-individualized and alienated cities, the growing development of informal settlements, individualist domination of the ruling system in the domination of history"[2], unconventional structures, the citizens' indifferent interest in urban dilemmas, especially in the beauty of the city, are such that the city's space is considered less as a social unit, and the gap between the citizens and the city's dependence becomes greater on a daily basis.

Sociological Analysis of Integration of Non-Citizens in Latvia Inese Šūpule, Bebris Iveta, Evija Klave, 2014-11-12 On 1st January 2014 13% or 282 876 people out of all Latvian population were former U S S R citizens who do not have the citizenship of the Republic of Latvia or that of any other country Most often this group has been denominated as Latvian non citizens The study gives an in depth understanding of the barriers and motivation of Latvian non citizens to naturalize or not and attitudes of non citizens towards living and integrating in Latvian society The following dimensions of citizenship has been analysed status of citizenship citizenship as sense of belonging and practice of citizenship The study involved the principles of participatory research approach One of the main findings was on importance and positive feedback of discussions and dialogue among ethnic Latvians Russians citizens and non citizens in Latvia

EU Citizenship, Nationality and Migrant Status Kristīne Krūma, 2013-10-24 In EU Citizenship Nationality and Migrant Status An Ongoing Challenge Kristīne Krūma offers an account of the regulation of nationality at international EU and national Latvian levels Growing global migration and multiple individual loyalties lead to a fusion of national identities traditionally preserved by the EU Member States Dismantling national borders and granting directly effective rights to EU citizens broadens our understanding about belonging only to the limited territory of a single State The primary focus is the status of the EU citizenship which has become a meaningful status capable of satisfying claims by citizens The Latvian example shows that migrant status cannot be ignored because of the crucial role of migrants in the future construct of the EU

Social Cohesion and Social Change in Europe Gerard Boucher, Yunas Samad, 2017-10-02 Social cohesion has had different meanings for people depending on their background their interests where they live in the world and at what time they lived In the social sciences social cohesion is a term used to explain the social and cultural consequences of structural changes related to industrialization and modernity In the European Union structural changes which relate to globalization European integration the restructuring of welfare states ageing societies and transitions from communism have often led to more insecurity and material inequalities between people Higher rates of immigration and issues related to the integration of migrants and their descendants have also led to anxieties about the preservation of national cultures and identities This book argues that perceived crises in social cohesion in Europe have more to do with the consequences of structural change rather than the failure of multiculturalism and immigration It looks at the relationship between social cohesion and social change in Europe focusing on the European Union as a whole and on urban areas such as Paris France and Bradford UK This book was originally published as a special issue of Patterns of Prejudice

State of the World's Minorities 2006 Richard Green, 2005-12-22 The way in which we treat minorities is the measure of civilization of a society Mahatma Gandhi In the era of globalization societies are becoming more diverse Every country around the globe exhibits some ethnic religious or cultural diversity Instead of an asset to be celebrated however governments too often treat this as a threat States in every world region repress the rights of their minorities or even deny their existence For some minorities or indigenous peoples their very survival is at stake In addition to the war in Iraq which remained the focus of intense media attention over 20 further major armed conflicts were ongoing in other parts of the world in 2005 as well as a range of lower intensity conflicts In three quarters of these armed conflicts violence was targeted at specific ethnic or religious groups Yet many of these conflicts could have been prevented if minority and indigenous rights had been respected This first edition of the State of the World s Minorities looks at key developments over the last year affecting the human rights and security of ethnic religious or linguistic minorities and indigenous peoples It includes a Preface by the UN Special Adviser on the Prevention of Genocide Juan E M ndez analysis of trends and legal developments by leading authorities on minority rights an overview by world region highlighting main developments and areas of concern statistical data on Peoples under Threat 2006 ratification tables for the main minority rights treaties and extracts from recently concluded treaties This major new reference work provides an objective analysis of how minorities and indigenous peoples are treated around the globe and with it a measure of the civilization of our societies

Diasporas and Transportation of Homeland Conflicts Élise Féron, Bahar

Baser, 2024-05-07 This book explores the transformation and reinvention of conflict generated diaspora groups politics in countries of residence Numerous narratives link diasporas and conflicts diasporas are seen alternatively as peace wreckers or peace makers as products of forced migration related to conflicts or as targets of securitization policies Transported conflicts occurring within and between diasporas in their countries of residence however remain relatively underexplored tend to be misunderstood and often associated with criminal or terrorist activities The chapters in this volume draw our attention to various interconnected temporalities explaining patterns of conflict transportation such as the temps long of diasporic mobilisation the here and now of what is happening in both host and home countries and micro temporalities and diasporans life trajectories Finally the contributions demonstrate that patterns shapes and even occurrence of conflict transportation vary according to scale and space Highly politicized forms of confrontation are not necessarily representative of everyday interactions between diaspora groups which can entail discrete but tangible forms of cooperation and even solidarity This edited volume calls for nuancing our approach to the links between diasporas and conflicts to avoid falling into the essentialisation trap The chapters in this book were originally published in Ethnopolitics
